

Ben Hastings

Chief Technology Officer

Ben is one of the founding members of Torc and has served in a number of engineering and product innovation roles.

As Chief Technology Officer, he is responsible for driving innovation and recommending technical strategies and solutions that guide Torc's long-term focus.

Ben works closely with counterparts across the globe and has helped develop a talented team of engineers who are not afraid to confront challenges. He is proud of the company he's helped build and inspired by the ability of Torc's employees to solve complex problems that have never before been solved.

Ben earned Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in Electrical Engineering from Virginia Tech.